Dear President Tribley,

On behalf of the University of California, Santa Cruz, I am pleased to inform you that Ms. Shannon Barbour has been selected as Monterey Peninsula College's recipient of UCSC's 2013 Karl S. Pister Leadership Opportunity Program Award.

I have enclosed the campus's award letter offering the scholarship to Ms. Barbour, and would very much appreciate it if you could deliver this letter to her as soon as possible, since the recipient is asked to return an acceptance form by May 10, 2013. At the same time, I would appreciate if you could arrange for the non-selected candidates at your school to be notified as soon as possible.

We plan to release the information on our 2013 Leadership Opportunity Program to the media during the month of October. Therefore, we would appreciate if your office would work with our University Relations Office, to coordinate the release of press information.

Let me take this opportunity to express my appreciation to you and your staff for once again helping to make this year's scholarship program a success. All of the nominations you submitted were outstanding, and I wish that we were able to offer this award to all of these deserving students.

Re: AB 806 (Wilk) SUPPORT

Dear Assembly Member Williams:

I am writing to you today to ask you for your support of AB 806. This long overdue legislation allows colleges that hire faculty librarians and faculty counselors to count the compensation for these faculty members as integral to the instructional programs on college campuses.

Opponents to this concept diminish the role of counselors and librarians. Librarian faculty members are an integral part of the instructional design and implementation process for all courses, especially for online courses. Counseling faculty members are an essential component of our student success strategies. Librarians and counselors are engaged in our faculty shared governance process, paid on the same scale (often on tenure-track), contribute strongly to institutional accreditation processes, and participate on Academic Senate. They are faculty. Let us count them as such.

As you may know, in 1961 the Fifty Percent Law (EC Sec. 17503) was enacted for K-12 as a way to promote class size reduction by designating that 50% of all funding should only be used for faculty salaries and benefits. When the community college system was separated from K-12, this law, among others, was simply rolled into community college operations, but is considered a "carry over" from a time when K-12 schools and "junior colleges" were part of the same financing structure.

Fast forward to 2013 and you now find that faculty has collective bargaining to protect their rights, as well as 75/25 and the faculty obligation number (FON). AB 1725 has passed, giving faculty increased authority and collegial consultation. Teaching methods, undreamed of in 1961 when the law was passed, are now the norm. Smart classrooms, new technology for managing information and online distance learning programs are the standard now, and student success is the goal we all strive to achieve.

One problem: none of it, including counselors and librarians, is regarded as instruction as far as the 50% calculation is applied.

What this means in practical terms for a college district is that for every dollar you spend on classroom technology or a librarian or a counselor—you have to spend another dollar on faculty compensation—in order to avoid falling below the 50% threshold.

Add to this a series of continuous budget cuts, year after year. In an era of improving outcomes and meeting ever-increasing demands for accountability, what you are unfortunately left with is a fiscal disaster waiting to happen on a growing number of campuses throughout California—a state where community colleges are a major component of the engine to economic recovery! In fact, the disaster has already happened. The financial undermining of community colleges in California is the significant roadblock in effecting the vital mission they play in the health of our state. Now more than ever, our community colleges need funding to adjust to the ever-increasing challenges of quality program delivery to ensure access and success for our students.

Since the 50% law was enacted over 50 years ago, there have been considerable changes and advancements in instructional methods, policy, mandates and technology. Each year, community colleges have struggled to keep pace with it all. At the same time, college districts have had to stay true to the 50% calculation or suffer extreme financial consequences.

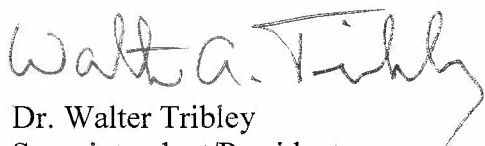

Assembly Member Wilk's bill would finally make some small but needed adjustments to keep the 50% rule in place, but to modernize the definition of the true costs directly associated to instruction and include them on the right side of the equation. This includes counselors, librarians, coordinators, and department chairs.

Again, none of these items is currently counted as "instructional expense" and yet all are essential to student success—and paying for them must currently come from the shrinking half of the budget known as discretionary funding.

As a result of the changing demands for delivering education, coupled with the fiscal constraints of the state, districts must be allowed to recognize all costs of education within the context of the 50% law to ensure student success and the on-going viability of the Community College system.

Thank you for your kind attention! I appreciate your consideration of this issue, and stand ready to provide you with whatever additional information you need to gain your support of this bill.

Sincerely,

Dr. Walter Tribley

Dr. Brice W. Harris
Chancellor's Office
Deputy Sector Navigator Grant
Sacramento, California

Dear Dr. Harris,

I am happy to write this letter in support of the application by Mission College for the Deputy Sector Navigator grant. Monterey Peninsula College and our surrounding region have a thriving hospitality and tourism industry. The area is the home to the Monterey Bay Aquarium, the Pebble Beach golf courses, the Big Sur recreational area, Cannery Row and the recently named Fort Ord National Monument among many other attractions. All of these destinations require resorts, hotels, motels and restaurants with their associated employees. Many of these employees need training in everything from English as a Second Language to Hospitality Management.

As the region's second largest industry, tourism creates more than 22,000 jobs throughout the destination. Monterey County welcomes 8 million visitors annually, who generate $2 billion in spending. Monterey County Industry Employment Projections for 2008-2018 indicate that the number of openings for Leisure and Hospitality will increase by 9.3% or 2,000 jobs. The number of openings for Accommodation and Food Services will increase by 8.8% or 1,700 jobs. Many of these positions will require training at the local community colleges.

Monterey Peninsula College is eager to partner with Mission College in working toward accomplishing the following goals:

- Identifying regional hospitality labor market needs;
- Addressing gaps in skills training;
- Examining best practices in hospitality education and job training;
- Initiating regional activities that integrate the contributions of the Bay Area's hospitality industry stakeholders, to create effective strategies for addressing hospitality labor market needs and supporting student success.

MPC is looking forward to working with Mission College in addressing the distinct regional needs in our hospitality industry. We believe that our efforts will be an economic driver for our area.

Sincerely,

Re: "When You Dream": The Community College Pipeline to Law School

Enclosed are five copies of a DVD developed by the California State Bar Council on Access and Fairness, which promotes the profession of law to community college students. The video was developed under the leadership of Thuy Thi Nguyen, general counsel at Peralta CCD, and a committee that included your colleagues Brian King and Sandra Serrano.

The State Bar Council on Access and Fairness recognizes that students who have attended community college bring a socio-economic diversity and unique understanding of legal issues facing Californians, particularly within our communities with limited access to lawyers.

I can personally attest to a number of students in my law school class at UC Davis who, but for the educational opportunity provided by community college, they would not have had access to the legal profession. And, while we joke about the number of lawyers, these community college alumni are working as district attorneys, public defenders, immigration lawyers, and many other fields in which they return to give back to their community. I believe it's a particular asset that community college alumni take with them after law school.

Wednesday, May 1, is Law Day, U.S.A. The day was declared by President Dwight Eisenhower in 1958, and codified into federal statute in 1961:

- (1) in appreciation of their liberties and the reaffirmation of their loyalty to the United States and of their rededication to the ideals of equality and justice under law in their relations with each other and with other countries; and
- (2) for the cultivation of the respect for law that is so vital to the democratic way of life.

I encourage you to distribute the enclosed DVD and one copy of the brochure by Wednesday, May 1 to these offices on your campus, and others you deem appropriate:

- Transfer center
- Career services
- Student government

Dear Dr. Tribley:

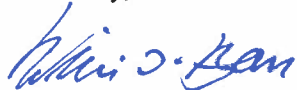

On behalf off the Matsui Foundation, I take great pleasure in notifying you that Ashley Hunter, and Christian Ortega, two of your college's candidates, have each been selected to receive the Twenty thousand ($20,000) dollar Matsui Scholarship. Neither of the scholarship recipients nor the other applicants from your college have been notified.

Enclosed are the two recipient's scholarship award letters, as well as the other applicant's letters of non-selection. The Foundation respectfully requests that you or a faculty member present, in person, the letters to the applicants non-selected before presenting the award letters for purposes of sensitivity.

This year there will not be an awards dinner hosted by the Matsui Foundation to honor the recipients and present each of them with his or her scholarship. The Matsui Foundation would appreciate your college carrying out the responsibility of notifying these individuals of their scholarship, and any public recognition that is attached thereto.

FIRST MONDAY

CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY COLLEGES CHANCELLOR BRICE W. HARRIS

Memorandum

DATE: May 6, 2013
TO: California Community College CEOs
FROM: Brice W. Harris, State Chancellor
SUBJECT: First Monday – May 2013

Colleagues,

The following are items of interest and importance for our system, and are provided for your information. If you have comments or concerns on any of these items feel free to email me at bharris@cccco.edu or telephone me at 916-322-4005.

1. Restoring Access to Our Colleges: As you know, we were able to begin modestly adding back classes in January after the successful passage of Proposition 30. And, we expect some additional dollars to be available in the coming budget to continue restoring the access that has been lost from our system over the past four years. I have said publically on many occasions in recent months that, as we restore access, we must be mindful of the direction we have been given by the Legislature and Administration to focus that restoration on transfer, career/technical education and remedial coursework. On a related note, in recent weeks we have received a large number of courses for approval whereby an existing course has been leveled to create a total of 4 new courses to address non-repeatable course options. I encourage each of you to carefully review these submissions to ensure that the changes are clearly based on sound educational justification and are not merely a way to deal with the new restrictions on course repeatability recently approved by the Board of Governors. In some cases I am sure that these submissions are well-justified. However, we must not be seen as manipulating our curriculum simply to avoid the repeatability rules. If you have any questions on this issue, I encourage you to contact Vice Chancellor of Academic Affairs, Barry Russell.

2. Workforce Training – Doing What Matters for Jobs and the Economy: As you know, the Chancellor’s Office is reorganizing its approach to workforce training through the “Doing What MATTERS for Jobs and the Economy” initiative. This approach aligns with state and federal changes as well as market conditions that exist in our recovering economy. A number of you heard updates at the recent CEO conferences about this push to work more collaboratively on a regional basis to address labor market needs and better leverage scarce resources. A suggestion raised was the need to incorporate more workforce elements into professional development programs for college administrators, and my staff have already taken action on this working through ACCCA. A second idea was to sponsor CEO-specific development that helps our leaders further student success through Career Technical Education programming. I will be working with College of the Canyons President Dianne Van Hook to see if the CEO Academy format could apply here. In the meantime, several leaders in our system have volunteered to host conversations among CEOs on what it means to respond collaboratively to a region's workforce needs. I'm attaching a list of who will be convening these discussions in the state's seven macro regions, and I hope you will all participate in this important conversation. If you have any questions regarding this initiative feel free to call Vice Chancellor, Van Ton-Quinlivan directly.

3. City College of San Francisco Hosts AACC: As many of you know, last week City College of San Francisco welcomed all our colleagues from around the nation as they served as the host college for the annual meeting of the American Association of Community Colleges. Congratulations to Interim Chancellor Scott-Skillman, San Francisco Mayor Ed Lee and all the faculty and staff at the college for rolling out the welcome mat and representing all California community colleges so effectively.
4. Community College Baccalaureate: When the Board of Governors met in retreat recently the increasing trend of community colleges in other states offering the Bachelor's degree was discussed. Currently, community colleges in 23 other states offer one or more Bachelor's degrees – many of those are applied Baccalaureates. At that retreat I told the Board of my intention to form a taskforce to look into this issue, and at last month's Consultation Council I distributed the enclosed taskforce charge and membership. At this point I do not have a strong feeling on this issue. On the one hand our colleges have struggled to keep up with the demands on our existing mission, but on the other, there are several of our programs where students are increasingly being told by employers that a Bachelor's degree is a strong preference and in some cases a requirement for entry into the field. There has been more than one piece of legislation offered in California in recent years that would have given our colleges this opportunity, and I believe there are likely to be more in the future. For those reasons, it seems important for us to have our own internal conversation which could ultimately inform the Board of Governors in future discussions. I will keep you apprised of the progress of the group which will be Chaired by Vice Chancellor Barry Russell.
5. Offering College Courses on High School Campuses: Recently, there has been much discussion within the system concerning the increased student success when high school students are engaged by community colleges before they graduate. This happens in a variety of ways, including the offering of college classes at the high school. I need to remind you of the limitations placed on the system back in 2003 when legislation was passed that specifically limited the offering of community college classes on high school campuses. The legislation said that if courses were offered on a high school campus they must not be held during the time a campus was closed to the general public (Education Code Section 76002.a.3). This limitation remains in effect and the language of the statute specifically states that the school district governing board must define what it means to be "closed to the general public" in a regular board meeting, not simply in an MOU with the college. If you are considering such courses I encourage you to have a discussion with your local districts to see how this issue might be resolved. There are some available exceptions if the class is conducted as contract education, but please investigate these offerings carefully before proceeding.
6. State Controller's Request for Compensation Information: I suspect that most of you have already begun work on the information recently requested by California State Controller John Chiang related to Government Compensation in California (GCC). In addition to a letter from the Controller you should also have received the Electronic Reporting Instructions for Community College Districts. I encourage each of you to respond prior to the June 14, 2013 deadline.

California Community College Baccalaureate Degree Study Group

Background:

There has been renewed interest in the addition of bachelor degree options to the California community college mission. The establishment of bachelor degree programs at community colleges is seen by some as a strategy to increase college participation rates for local residents who are unable to relocate because of family or work commitments or to address the needs of rural communities and the state's need for additional bachelor degree-trained individuals in high demand disciplines.

A Task Force to study the issue will be appointed by the Chancellor to review the various aspects of bachelor degrees at community colleges. Many states have ongoing programs that provide research into the effectiveness of the programs. In addition, current demographic, economic, and workforce trends will be analyzed to determine the need for such a program in California.

Charge:

The study group will look at the following factors, in addition to others:

- How would bachelor's degree programs complement other programs and courses offered by the community colleges.
- How bachelor's degree programs would address specific regional or state workforce needs.
- Documented demand for additional bachelor's graduates in the programs proposed.
- Additional costs of delivering the proposed bachelor's degree programs.
- Admission criteria that could be used by colleges in selecting students to be admitted to the bachelor's degree programs along with the number of students to be admitted to and served by the programs.
- Whether the proposed bachelor's degree programs would unnecessarily duplicate the degree programs offered by other postsecondary education institutions in certain regions (CSU, UC, and private).
- How articulation strategies might complement or possibly limit the movement of students from community colleges to the CSU or UC systems.

- The implications on the existing accreditation of California community colleges should the bachelor's degree option be added.
- Ability of community colleges to support bachelor's degree programs including the adequacy of facilities, faculty, administration, libraries, and other student support and academic resources.
- What changes would be needed at the Chancellor's Office to support community college bachelor's degree (curriculum, student services, fiscal, facilities, etc.) programs.
- Data collection and evaluation needed to measure the success and effectiveness of bachelor's degree program.

ON COURSE Workshop -- Another opportunity

Dear Colleagues, At this Spring Semester Flex Days, the Basic Skills Committee offered a two day On Course Workshop. Over 35 of your colleagues from several different disciplines participated (Business, English, Math, Fashion, Sociology, History, English as a Second Language, and more). Their evaluations of the workshop and the teaching strategies they have implemented have been extremely positive. As you may remember, because there were other Flex Day activities, several people who wanted to attend the On Course Workshop were not able to.

Great News! We applied for and received funding from the MPC Foundation to offer another two day On Course Workshop for up to 50 MPC faculty. In order to schedule it when the most people can attend, we are conducting a brief, quick survey.

If you are interested in attending the two day workshop, please take a minute to tell us when the best dates would be for you.

There are three choices:

- the week of June 10 (the week between the end of Spring Semester and the beginning of Summer Semester),
- the week of August 12 (the week before Fall Flex days), or
- August 19 and 20 (the Monday and Tuesday of Fall Flex -- NOTE, this option is not 100% sure, yet, but please indicate your preference for it just in case we can work it out to have it then).

Please take a minute and let us know the possible dates work for you:

Rosaleen, can you put together a survey monkey asking these questions? We are trying to determine what days would work for the remaining faculty to do a two day workshop.

If the Two day On Course Workshop is offered at MPC when you can attend, how likely are you to actually attend, knowing that you must attend both days of the workshop?

Cannot attend fairly sure I would attend definitely will attend
Could it be a table, where the dates are on the left and the likelihood of attending is across the top?

Please indicate your preferred dates for a 2 day On Course Workshop. The workshop would go from 9 to 4 each day, and will most likely include lunch and definitely snacks.

Subject: Novelist Christopher Moore at MPC April 24

Best-selling comic novelist Christopher Moore will talk about his own work and the writing of novels in general at an MPC Guest Authors Series event on Wednesday, April 24 at 7PM in Lecture Forum 103.

Moore is known for his wildly imaginative plots and characters, which have included demons, vampires, and the occasional Lust Lizard. His many novels irreverently take on subjects from Shakespearean drama (Fool, the King Lear tale as told by Lear's profane jester, Pocket) to vampire love (a trilogy of novels including Bloodsucking Fiends and Bite Me). Most recently, Sacre Bleu involves a who's who of art history in investigating the apparent suicide of Vincent Van Gogh – which turns out to be something else entirely. (For more on Moore, see chrismoore.com)

Tickets for the event ($10) are available in advance at the Humanities Division office (HSS109) at MPC. Tickets will also be available at the Lecture Forum beginning at 6:30PM on April 24. For additional information, contact CreativeWritingProgram@mpc.edu or hmarchand@mpc.edu.

Dear MPC,

Barbara Lee was running in the Boston marathon yesterday and was fairly close to the explosions. Many of you have contacted me and others in administration asking about Barb's safety.

Barb is safe. She and her husband Paul were not physically harmed by yesterday's tragic and senseless assault on humanity.

Stay strong MPC. Keep being involved in your communities. Sign up for even more "runs," events, community service projects, etc.

Sent on behalf of Laura Franklin. For any questions, please contact her at lfranklin@mpc.edu

This is a reminder that the Sarlo and Garrison proposals are due tomorrow, Friday, 4/26, at 5pm.

There are two awards this year: the Sarlo Foundation Fund and the new Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence

The Professional Recognition Board (PRB) is happy to announce the availability of project funding for faculty. Thanks to the generosity of the Sarlo Foundation which awarded $5000 for three years to MPC in response to a proposal submitted by Laura Franklin and the MPC Foundation, a third project award is available this year. (Funding was awarded to MPC for one project each in 2011, 2012 and 2013). In addition, a new $500 Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence award is available for the first time this year thanks to a donation by Dr. Douglas Garrison and Mrs. Renee Rutan-Garrison.

The PRB has developed an application process which is described on the attachments; the scope and goals of each project as well as application forms are also attached. Faculty may apply for one or both awards. Please note that all full-time faculty (except current PRB members and previous awardees) are eligible to apply for the Sarlo Foundation award. Both full-time and part-time faculty (except current PRB members) are eligible to apply for the Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence award, with first consideration given to full-time faculty as stipulated by the funder.

Applications are due to Laura Franklin by 5:00 p.m. Friday, April 26th. Detailed application instructions are included on the attachments. The PRB intends to review applications and select this year's awardees in early May so that the funded projects can begin this summer. Please contact Laura Franklin at x4816 or lfranklin@mpc.edu if you have any questions about this award or the application process.

The PRB looks forward to receiving and reviewing applications for faculty projects that will further enhance the high quality instruction we offer at MPC.

Sarlo Endowment Project Description

Scope of project and goals:

The overarching goal is to support a Sarlo Endowment Project for one faculty member per year. It is the intent of the Professional Recognition Board (PRB) to announce each year's awardee prior to the end of spring semester. A Sarlo Endowment Project could be completed during the summer and/or fall so that the project presentation can be made during the spring Flex days. The project timeline can begin in Summer 2013 and all expenditures must be made and accounted for by the end of the spring semester 2014. The funds provided for the Sarlo Endowment Project would cover any associated project costs in the amount of $5,000. Only one award will be made each year so applicants are encouraged to plan comprehensive projects which will maximize the $5,000 award.

Project Categories:

Study

The Sarlo Endowment Project may be one of academic study in residence at an accredited university or college. Proposed course work shall be planned to achieve specific objectives.

A Special Project or Research Program

Such a program may be planned with specific objectives which are relevant to the faculty member's assignment.

Work Experience

This project category is intended chiefly for faculty who wish to study in schools maintained by a business or industry for craftsmen or technical workers or to obtain work experience in the vocational field in which the employee works. A description of the specific school or work experience shall be submitted with the proposed program.

Curriculum Planning

A project for curriculum planning may be awarded after the applicant has submitted a proposal demonstrating need and purpose for revision of existing courses or development of new courses.

Combination of Objectives

A project which is designed to meet the multiple objectives of study, research, work experience, and/or curriculum planning may be awarded after the applicant has submitted a proposal containing specific objectives and relevance to the institutional assignment.

Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence Project Description

Scope of project and goals:

On behalf of Dr. Douglas Garrison and Mrs. Renee Rutan-Garrison, this fund was established in 2013 with a donation from the Garrisons to create an annual project award for MPC faculty. The purpose of this award is to honor the tenure of Dr. Douglas Garrison as Superintendent/President of Monterey Peninsula College while providing funding for faculty member summer sabbaticals with an overall intention of enhancing the classroom experience for students.

The annual $500 award is to be used to fund one or more summer projects ["summer sabbatical"] that will enhance MPC classes through implementation of innovative instructional methodologies, inclusion of research findings, exposure to recent developments in specific academic fields or other activities that will enhance the classroom experience for our students.

It is the intent of the Professional Recognition Board (PRB) to announce each year's awardee prior to the end of spring semester. A Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence Project could be completed during the summer and/or fall so that the project presentation can be made during the spring Flex days. The project timeline can begin in Summer 2013 and all expenditures must be made and accounted for by the end of the fall semester 2013. The funds provided for the Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence would cover any associated costs in the amount of $500.

As determined by the funder, recipients will be faculty members at MPC with first consideration given to full-time faculty members. Part-time faculty members are eligible for this award if none of the full-time faculty member submissions rise to the level of the part-time faculty member submissions.

Garrison Fund for Educational Excellence Application Form

Please submit an electronic copy and a hard copy with your signature to Laura Franklin in Academic Affairs, lfranklin@mpc.edu. Both the electronic and hard copies must be accompanied by a description of proposed activities. Deadline is 12 noon Fri. April 12, 2013.

- 1) Benefit to the MPC community
- 2) Relevance and importance to the faculty member's assignment
- 3) Clear and achievable objectives

Selection Process

Subject: Lobos Win the Coast Conference Title!

Dear MPC-

Please join me in congratulating Head Coach Dan Phillips, Pitching Coach Vince Herring, Catching/Hitting Coach Trevor Howe, Athletic Director Lyndon Schutzler, and those AMAZING student athletes of the 2013 Lobos Baseball Team for their victory yesterday over Hartnell College, 7-1.

The Lobos had to “win-out” their games to win the title. So they did. Going 7 – 0 in their last seven games. Our lads are on top of the Coast Conference for the first time since 1971. It was clear in the pre-season that this team was going to be coached with wisdom, passion, and skill.

The game yesterday was exciting, for MPC. The final outs came on a dramatic double-play followed by a huge pileup on the pitcher’s mound of joyous teammates. Amid the pileup on the mound and immediate realization of what had just been achieved, there were tears of joy, pride, and humility running beneath those ultra-cool sunglasses. Heartfelt admiration from the fans, which notably included several coaches from the MPC Athletic Department, faculty, staff, parents, students, and Trustees, helped make our Lobos’ moment as sweet as possible.

Speaking of sweet. I won a bottle of wine (was hoping for chocolate milk) from my friend, and President of Hartnell College, Dr. Will Lewallen. This will be sweet too.

Best wishes for continued success in the post-season.

Go Lobos!

Walt

Subject: TWO FREE TICKETS for LIGHT UP THE SKY

Sent on behalf of Sky Rappoport, Theatre Manager

TWO FREE TICKETS

Hello MPC,

After 22 months on the road, we are HOME and once again performing on the Morgan Stock Stage in the newly modernized and renovated Theatre Arts facility on campus. We want to welcome you to our new home, so I am inviting you to attend our “break-in” production of LIGHT UP THE SKY as our guest.

We are offering each staff member TWO FREE TICKETS to this production, which will perform May 9th through the 26th. To claim your free tickets, please stop in at the theatre box office, Wed. – Fri. between 3:00 and 7:00 PM. These complementary tickets can only be claimed in person, and must be claimed at least 48 hours in advance of when you wish to attend. Additional tickets may be purchased for this or any other MPC Theatre Company production at the discounted MPC Staff Rate of just $12.50.

A true madcap “laugh-a-minute” comedy, by the master...Moss Hart, and directed by our own Gary Bolen.

While a truck-driver-turned-playwright watches his first play being produced in Boston, the backstage antics steal the show. This behind-the-scenes comedy features the grandly temperamental leading lady, her sarcastic gin rummy playing mother, the flamboyant director, as well as the lowbrow producer and his ice-skating, wisecracking wife. As opening night seems to go awry, everyone believes the show is a flop and turn against each other. When it turns out that the reviews are favorable, the tables are suddenly turned!

Please feel free to contact either myself or Henry Guevara with any questions about this or any other upcoming productions, at extension 4213 or via email at mpcboxoffice@mpc.edu

Please email your nominations to me with an explanation about how the nominee meets the criteria for the award. Nominations for both types of awards must be received by Tuesday, May 14, by 5:00 PM.

Thank you,
Walt

- "Going above and beyond the call of duty" to help plan or facilitate outreach activities

The names of the Difference Makers and their contributions will be announced at the Employee Recognition barbecue on May 24. Recipients will receive a modest monetary award. The Monterey Peninsula College Foundation is underwriting the financial award.

Nominations may be made by any supervisor at MPC. A nomination is comprised of an email detailing the employee's contribution(s) over the previous academic year. Nominations are due by Tuesday, May 14, at 5:00 pm (send to: wtribley@mpc.edu). A committee comprised of two administrators, two faculty members, and two classified staff members will review nominations and select up to three honorees.

Subject: Using MPC Online for Summer and Fall

Hi, all --

As we get closer to the end of the spring semester, the Institutional Committee on Distance Education would like to remind the campus that MPC Online is getting an upgrade this summer. While the new version of MPC Online (Moodle) will look VERY familiar, you will find that it is much more user-friendly and has some improved tools to better support online teaching and learning. We think that both instructors and students will like the changes. (A few things that we're particularly looking forward to: drag and drop file uploads, improved Quickmail, improved quiz design, and much, much faster performance overall.) Best of all, your old courses will copy over to the new system.

If you plan to use MPC Online to teach a summer course or are already thinking ahead to fall, you will find some important information and details of upcoming workshops below.

SUMMER 2013

The new version of Moodle will be the default system for all Summer 2013 courses. Beginning on June 6th, the link <http://mpconline.mpc.edu> will direct you to the new version of Moodle and we will provide links back to the old version for archives. If you haven't already contacted us to arrange to have your courses copied over, let us know and we will help you get started. If you need additional time to make the transition and wish to use the old version of Moodle over the summer or wish to have a previous semester's course copied over to the new system, please let us know ASAP by emailing onlinehelp@mpc.edu. Throughout the summer, we will continue to offer training workshops and one-on-one appointments to help you prepare for Fall.

FALL 2013

Beginning in Fall 2013, all MPC courses will be live in the new version of Moodle, and courses on the old version of Moodle will be available as archive. We will continue focused, hands-on professional development workshops and one-on-one support.

MOODLE WORKSHOPS

We will be offering three more MPC Online workshops in May:

Introduction to Teaching Online with MPC Online / Moodle

This workshop is designed for faculty who do not have a lot of experience with Moodle. We will go more in-depth into course design and set-up. If you are teaching online for the first time, or if you have been thinking about using MPC Online to support a face-to-face class, this workshop is a perfect place to jump in and get started.

When: Thursday, May 9, 10:00am – 12:00pm

Location: LTC 120 (ESSC Classroom)

Register at: <http://goo.gl/qJWXX>

Designing Online Quizzes & Exams

This workshop will provide ideas for how MPC Online can be used to develop and administer quizzes & exams, whether you are teaching online or wanting to enhance a face-to-face class.

When: Wednesday, May 15, 12:30pm – 1:30pm

Location: LTC 119 (ESL Lab)

Register at: <http://goo.gl/6jHle>

Meet the New MPC Online – Upgrading to the New Moodle

This workshop is designed for faculty who have experience with course design and set-up in our current version of Moodle. We will show you what has changed and help you move your existing course into the new system.

When: Wednesday, May 22, 2:30 – 3:30 PM

Where: LTC 203/204

Register at: <http://goo.gl/eYVfX>

Our goal is to make the transition as smooth and painless as we possibly can. If you cannot attend one of the scheduled workshops (or if you would like to get started in the new version even earlier), have questions, or need additional information, please contact Jon (jknolle@mpc.edu), Bruce (bwilder@mpc.edu), or me (cwebb@mpc.edu) so we can assist you.

Thank you!

If you are a Faculty member, please take a moment to log into your Faculty Portal (WebReg) and review your rosters. GENTRAIN SOCIETY LECTURE

The End of Paganism in Ancient Egypt

Gentrain Instructor Tom Logan spent two weeks this past winter on an expedition with Eugene Cruz-Uribe to Phylae, Egypt. Phylae was an Egyptian temple dedicated to the goddess Isis. The temple and her worship were very popular during the

Temple at Phylae

Ptolemaic and Roman Periods. The purpose of the work was to record graffiti left by pilgrims who came "to see the goddess." This lecture will look at the last pagan worship in Egypt and discuss the function of an Egyptian temple and the worship in it.

Hartnell's Shipman tosses 2-hitter vs. MPC*By TOMMY WRIGHT Herald Staff Writer Monterey County HeraldPosted:*

MontereyHerald.com

THE HERALD, APRIL 16 2013

A battle between two of the top pitchers in the Coast Conference South lived up to its billing Monday as the host Hartnell softball team beat MPC 2-1.

North Salinas alumna Danielle Shipman, who leads the conference in strikeouts with 156, allowed two hits and one run while striking out six for Hartnell (30-6, 12-3).

"All season, Dani has been on top of things and coming up clutch" Hartnell right fielder Kaycee Gonzales said. "She's putting her heart out there, so there's nothing more you can ask for from a pitcher."

Shipman stranded eight Lobos runners in scoring position.

"We had runners on almost every inning, but we just couldn't get them across," said MPC center fielder Katie Ditler.

The Lobos reached base safely nine times against Shipman, but they went 0-for-11 with runners in scoring position. Shipman got a strikeout with the bases loaded and two outs in the third and with runners on second and third and two out in the fifth.

"We shouldn't have lost that game," Ditler said.

MPC (25-12, 8-7) finally broke through in the sixth. Salinas High alumnus Brittany Enny led off the inning with a double. She advanced to third on Alyssa Sargent's sacrifice bunt and scored on a wild pitch.

Monterey High alumna Alyssa Seva'aetasi went 2-for-2 with an RBI for Hartnell. Her single in the third gave the Panthers a 1-0 lead.

MPC pitcher Beverly Miller, who came into the game with a conference leading 1.29 ERA, shut down a Hartnell offense that had scored over 10 runs a game in its past three games. Up until the seventh inning, the only run Miller allowed was unearned.

The score was 1-1 in the bottom of the seventh when Gonzales hit a walk-off single through the hole between first and second base.

"I wanted a hit because I had a strikeout right before," Gonzales said. "In my mind I was thinking, 'I'm going to get this hit.'"

Brandee Ho, who scored both of Hartnell's runs, got the rally started with a single up the middle. North County alumna Andrea Estigoy moved Ho to second on a walk to set up Gonzales.

Miller took the loss, despite allowing just one earned run and six hits.

"Bev did awesome today," Ditler said. "I haven't seen her pitch that well all season. She hit her spots, they just made that last contact."

Ditler said the Lobos need to finish strong in each of their final two regular season games to try and earn a spot in the playoffs. MPC, which was ranked ninth in Northern California in last week's coaches poll, plays at West Valley on Thursday and hosts San Jose City on April 23.

Hartnell looks to nearly be a lock for the postseason. The Panthers were ranked second in Northern California and fifth in the state in the latest coaches poll. Hartnell could move into first place with a win at Cabrillo on Thursday.

"Our goal is the playoffs, most definitely," Gonzales said. "But for these next two games (our goal) is just to win, that's all we need."

Local sports roundup: MPC's Dorsey 2nd in NorCal decathlon championships

THE HERALD, APRIL 17 2013

Steve Dorsey did all he could in the decathlon's final event, even beating the leader by a stride in the 1,500 meter run.

Yet, the Monterey Peninsula College freshman fell four points short Wednesday, finishing second to Jason Dunn of Sacramento City College in the Northern California decathlon championships at the College of San Mateo.

Dunn compiled 6,493 points to Dorsey's 6,489 points

The pair will meet again on May 11 at the state track and field championships at American River College. This was just Dorsey's second decathlon, a two-day, 10-event competition.

Dorsey, a two-time state meet qualifier in the high jump at Monterey High, trailed Dunn by 17 points going into the final event, running a career-best 4:50.48 in the 1,500.

Dorsey finished second overall in the 110 high hurdles (15.55), 11th in the discus, 13th in the pole vault, fourth in the javelin and eighth in the 1,500 on the second day of the competition.

Hartnell College's Austin Decker finished 10th overall with 5,731 points while teammate Jake Singley was 14th with 5,385 points.

MPC Lobos: With Foothill College dropping golf, the Monterey Peninsula College men's golf squad, along with normal Coast Conference members Chabot and San Jose CC, has found itself being hosted by the Central Valley Conference this season. Conferences must have three teams for official competition.

While things are different, the Lobos are still playing well, as evidenced by their recent second placed finish in a Central Valley Conference tourney at Kings River CC.

"We've been having a good season," head coach Justin Russo said.

With three tournaments left, MPC is already eyeing the NorCal Championship, to be held May 6 at Diablo Grande. Should they get to the State Championship, they'll have home course advantage. This year's CCCAA State Finals will be May 13 at Rancho Canada GC.

Leading the Lobos has been former AT&T Pebble Beach Jr. Golf Association sensation Will Cross, who has the best scoring average (73.8) in the conference. Pacific Grove High grad Michael Kraft, who made it to State last year, has a 74.3 average. Jordan Miller has a 75.3 average.

440 homeless people are in Monterey, says a 2011 census

By LARRY PARSONS Herald Staff Writer Monterey County Herald

Posted:

MontereyHerald.com

THE HERALD, APRIL 22 2013

Amid increased public outcry about the city's homeless population, the Monterey City Council will hold an evening study session Wednesday on the subject.

A 13-page council report prepared for the session says a 2011 census counted 440 homeless people in Monterey. It cautions that homelessness, unlawful behavior and activities affecting health and safety "are not one in the same and cannot be addressed with the same tools and strategies."

The council session comes in advance of a first-time, Peninsula-wide "Hungry and Homeless in Paradise" conference to be held May 18 at Monterey Peninsula College.

The council report breaks down different groups of homeless people, looks at different ways of addressing the complex issue, notes what the city already is doing, and says public complaints about transients are on the rise.

"Most causes of homelessness are outside the the control of government agencies," the report says. "There are no easy answers or solutions, only good intentions, inadequate resources and growing frustrations."

The homeless population comprises the "truly homeless" who have suffered severe economic setbacks, persons with substance-abuse, mental-health or other traumatic problems, and growing numbers of young "travelers" living nomadic lifestyles, the report says.

The city itself — with its moderate climate, seasonal visitors with disposable income and beaches, parks and greenbelts — are "reasons for the area's attractiveness for people experiencing homelessness."

City officials receive complaints "on a daily basis" from residents, tourists and the business community about the growing numbers of homeless, the report says.

"They report seeing homeless persons sprawled on the sidewalks, urinating in public and acting intimidating," the report says. Areas particularly impacted are downtown, Roberts Lake and the Garden Road, the report says.

In response, the city has created a temporary three-member police team to maintain a presence in the areas most affected. But city officials also have received complaints from the public about "criminalizing poverty" and targeting the homeless, the report says.

The city has ordinances against aggressive panhandling, loitering, littering, consuming alcohol in public, trespassing and other "health and safety" issues, the report says.

But other measures — overnight parking prohibitions in certain areas, expanded no-smoking laws and making it a crime to sit or lie on sidewalks or other public spaces — likely will be brought to the council, the report says.

This year, the city allocated $123,060 in community development grant money to 13 agencies serving the homeless. That's 50percent below last year's funding level because of the elimination of local redevelopment agencies, the report says.

The report lists about two dozen suggestions received by city officials to respond to homelessness. They range from increasing city contributions to business groups for security to licensing panhandlers.

THE HERALD, APRIL 22 2013

Nick Boggan is putting up monster numbers at the plate for the Cal Lutheran baseball team. Boggan, who prepped at Pacific Grove, leads the 25-6-1 Kingsmen in home runs (11) and runs batted in (52). Of his 51 hits, 25 have gone for extra bases.

The left-handed swinging Boggan is also chasing the .400 mark, hitting .392 through the team's first 32 games. The senior is 5-of-5 in stolen bases and has yet to commit an error in the infield in 265 chances.

Boggan, who has set career highs in every statistical category this spring, came into the season with 16 career home runs. As a sophomore in 2011, he was a third-team Division III All-American.

Honors for Powell

Sophomore hitter Jake Powell was named to the New England Collegiate Conference first team in volleyball for Newbury College.

The 6-foot-3 Powell, who prepped at Palma, led the Nighthawks in kills (302) and points (329). The outside hitter was also second on the team in digs.

Piling up the innings

Pitcher Alyssa Razo sports a 7-10 record as the ace for the UC Riverside softball team. The former Salinas High and Monterey Peninsula College hurler has 47 strikeouts and two shutouts in 100 innings.

Razo leads the team in wins, strikeouts, innings and starts. Last year the sophomore led MPC to a school record in wins, leading the state in wins and strikeouts.

Hawaiian Punch

Marc Flores and Stephen Ventimilia have spent time together on the right side of the University of Hawaii baseball team's infield.

Flores, who prepped at King City and played two seasons at Hartnell College, is one of two players for the Rainbows to hit a home run this spring, batting .240 in 26 starts.

Ventimilia, who hit just under .300 last year as a freshman, struggled earlier in the season. In just 18 starts this spring at second base, he leads the team in stolen bases and shares the team lead in runs scored.

MPC wins first baseball title since 1971

By JOHN DEVINE Herald Staff Writer Monterey County Herald

Glancing towards the dugout, Jake Pannunzio saw his teammates charging toward the mound.

"My first thought was who can I tackle?" the MPC hurler said.

Before Pannunzio could react, he found himself buried at the bottom of the pile with catcher Jesse White as all 30 Lobos piled on in a mass celebration.

"It was pitch dark under there," Pannunzio said.

Never did being in the dark during the light of day feel better for the Australia native, whose complete game Thursday enabled MPC to end a 42-year Coast Conference title drought after a 7-1 win over Hartnell.

"I'm numb," Pannunzio said.

Thanks to a seven-game winning streak to close the conference season, including a 19-inning win on Saturday, the Lobos embraced the moment that hadn't occurred since 1971.

"The last three weeks we've adopted a slogan of one inning at a time," sophomore second baseman Ty Morris said. "Our slogan was to play loose."

Yet, maintaining that loose attitude went out the window when the Lobos turned a double play to end the game.

"After that last out, it (excitement) all kicked in," Morris said.

While the players flew out of the dugout, head coach Daniel Phillips stood and hugged pitching coach Vince Herring near the bench.

"What an amazing feeling," Phillips said.

What an amazing finish to the final three weeks for the Lobos, who were 7-10 at one point in conference before going on a magical run to close the regular season.

"A conference title has been a topic of discussion since last fall," Phillips said. "I do not know if this is my most talented team. But all these kids bought into our beliefs. These are the results.

"Everyone on this team contributed in some way," Morris said. That included the 19-inning game in which Phillips used 28 of his 30

Each player seemed to have a story about landing at MPC.

Pannunzio, who tossed his third complete game, landed in Monterey after sending out video tapes of himself to numerous colleges in the United States while pitching in Australia.

"MPC was the one college that responded," said Pannunzio, who has another season.

Morris and White were at CSUMB last spring. Both ended up at MPC in the fall, with the hopes of getting more playing time and getting some college experience.

"Coach White (CSUMB) gave me the option," said Morris, a converted shortstop. "He told me we want you back in the fall. And I want to return to CSUMB next year."

The move paid dividends for Morris, who is among the state leaders in stolen bases with 28. As a leadoff hitter for MPC, he had three hits against the Panthers, with a pair of doubles and three runs scored.

Morris and Garret Woodward highlighted the Lobos' three-run second inning with back-to-back run scoring doubles.

"When we put up three in the second, it started to kick in," Morris said. "But we all got together in the dugout and said three is not enough."

It was enough when Pannunzio is on the mound. The left-hander didn't allow a hit until the fourth inning, and shut down the Panthers until the seventh when Matthew Antopia singled home a run.

"Coach asked how I was feeling and if I had my second wind," Pannunzio said. "I said yes."

Pannunzio set down seven of the last eight hitters for the Lobos (23-13), who will learn who they face on the postseason best of three series on Sunday.

"This team always gives me crazy run support when I pitch," said Pannunzio, who had a six-run cushion after four innings after Morris doubled home another run.

When Morris ripped his third hit of the game, Woodward, who will play next year at Colorado Mesa University, the same school his dad played for, followed with another RBI double.

The pair had five of the Lobos' eight hits in the leadoff and No. 2 spot, driving in four of the seven runs.

"In the eighth inning, I started counting the outs," Phillips said. "You get your bullpen ready, you start thinking of scenarios that could unfold. Right now I felt nothing but elation for the kids and the school."

Red-hot Lobos to face San Joaquin in playoffs

Herald Staff Reports

Still riding a wave of emotion from capturing its first Coast Conference baseball title in 42 years, Monterey Peninsula College is in uncharted waters.

The Lobos will open the Junior College Regional best-of-three playoffs on Friday, visiting No. 6 San Joaquin Delta in a rematch of both teams' season opener on February 1.

MPC comes into the post-season party as hot as any team in the state, having won its first conference title since 1971 by closing the season with seven straight wins.

At one point, MPC (23-13) was 7-10 in conference before going on its magical run that included a 19-inning win.

In the teams' season opening meeting, Delta (24-12) defeated the Lobos 7-4.

While the Lobos are streaking, Delta stumbled down the stretch, losing three of its final four to finish third in the Big 8 Conference.

Colorado Mesa University bound Garret Woodward tore up pitching this spring for MPC, hitting a team-high .369 while Jesse White drove in a team-leading 27 runs.

Ty Morris goes into the postseason second in the state in stolen bases with 28 while Woodward is among the state leaders in saves (9).

Hartnell opens softball playoffs vs. Delta

Herald Staff Reports

Having had to sit around for 11 days, stewing about a season-ending loss that cost them a share of the Coast Conference title, Hartnell College opens the softball playoffs on Saturday, hosting Delta.

The Panthers (31-7) are 10-0 at home this season.

Hartnell put up fantasy like numbers this spring, hitting .368 as a team while belting a school-record 34 home runs.

Kaycee Gonzales came within one hit of hitting .500, finishing a .492, while driving in a team-high 42 runs.

Alyssa Seva'aetasi chased the team's triple crown, leading the Panthers in homers (9) while finishing second in runs batted in (42), while batting .459.

Pitcher Danielle Shipman will go into the playoff opener one win away from a 20 win season for Hartnell. The former North Salinas High hurler has 159 strikeouts in 149 innings of work.

Delta (23-17) finished third in the Big 8 Conference, closing the season with three straight wins. Delta was 1-2 against teams in the Coast Conference.

MPC

The Lobos are facing one of the hottest teams in the state on Saturday when they visit Sierra (27-10), which ran off seven straight wins before falling in the Big 8 Conference title game to Sacramento.

Sierra hit .370 as a team this year, winning 17 of its final 21 games. Two of its setbacks, though, did come at home.

While the Lobos stumbled to a fourth-place finish in the Coast Conference, they did go 17-3 outside the conference.

Conference Most Valuable Player Megan Scherer hit .435 while driving in 50 runs.

Brittany Enny hit .324 for the Lobos.

Pitching carried MPC throughout the season as aces Clarrisa Cortez and Beverly Miller took turns shutting down teams.

Miller won 14 games and posted a 1.15 ERA with 118 strikeouts in 133 innings. Cortez, a Monterey High grad, finished with a 1.45 ERA and 107 strikeouts in 119 innings.

Seaside 12, Pajaro 0

The Seaside softball team clinched a share of the league title on Friday after blanking Pajaro.

Seaside's Kaitlyn Hernandez pitched five innings of shutout ball, striking out 11 batters in the process and had a pair of hits at the plate to lead the Spartans, who remain undefeated in league play.

Seaside will travel to North County on Wednesday.

Carmel 4, Stevenson 2

Brittany File tossed a two-hit, 12-strikeout, complete game to lead Carmel to a win over Stevenson.

Angie Savoldi had two RBIs for the Padres. Carmel will close out league play on Thursday vs. Catalina.

BASEBALL

Stevenson 3, King City 0

The Stevenson Pirates improved their record to 14-9 overall after shutting out King City on Friday.

Seth Kline and Chandler Bluhm went 2-for-3 at the plate for the Pirates, who host Carmel on Tuesday.

Soto Mendoza went 3-for-3 for King City.

Christopher 5, Salinas 2

Salinas' Josh Olivarría went 2-for-3 with a double and drove in both of the Cowboys runs.

Salinas (10-14-1, 8-8) hosts Monterey on Tuesday.

COLLEGE BASEBALL

CSUMB 4, UC San Diego 3

Senior Jesse Olson's walk-off single gave the No. 8 Cal State Monterey Bay baseball team its 11th consecutive victory, a win over UC San Diego Friday at the Otter Sports Complex.

Pinch hitting with one out in the ninth, Olson laid down a single that just barely got by Triton third baseman Garrett Tuck to score senior David Garcia.

Behind a 14-game home win streak, the Otters improve to 34-12 overall and 27-10 in conference action while UCSD drops to 25-22, 19-18 in CCAA play.

Senior Mark Hurley recorded the contest's first hit to lead off the bottom of the second and eventually scored from second on a two-out single by senior Tommy George.

CSUMB notched another leadoff hit in the third, this time off the bat of senior Victor Rasor-Thompson. A perfect hit-and-run with senior Ronnie Fhurong put runners at the corners. Senior Brian Haggett hit into a 6-4-3 double play but was able to pick up an RBI with Rasor-Thompson scoring to make it 2-0 CSUMB.

All three UCSD runs came in the fifth inning with Danny Susdorf driving in two runs before scoring on Dillon Moyer's single.

Junior Josh Eagle earned with the win after two shutout innings of relief.

The Otters are back on the field on Saturday for a twinbill against the Tritons beginning at 11 a.m.

LACROSSE

York 13, Palma 4

Jack Yost led the Falcons with five goals and a pair of assists, and Gordon Chesebro three goals and four assists.

York's Ryan Galloway and Brendan Martin each had two goals and an assist.

The Falcons are now 8-7 overall while Palma slipped to 6-13.

Carmel 16, Watsonville 3

Carmel improved to 10-7 overall and 8-3 in the Mission Trail Athletic League.

Morgan Koucky scored four goals and had six assists to lead the Padres.

Wants more coverage of local athlete

In The Herald May 1 staff reports local sports roundup, the top headline reads “Monterey Peninsula College’s Garret Woodward named conference MVP.”

If I was a young man on a local community college baseball team that has just been awarded the most prestigious award in the area, I would indeed be beaming with pride. While I am pleased to see this article placed at the top of the sports section, I am left with an empty void after the fact.

This local hero holds numerous statistical accomplishments and even more game-changing and game-winning performances that his picture and a larger biography are merited in our county paper, a medium meant to cover this very type of story.

One only needs to look five inches below Woodward's coverage to see a pointless color photo of a NBA basketball player wiping sweat from his brow. Really? Are we to marvel at this million-dollar basketball star while our young athlete is basking in the local celebrity light that lacks any lumens whatsoever?

I think we need a better tribute to this young man and his fellow peers that made the all-conference team.

MPC Theatre Company returns to renovated Morgan Stock Stage with comedy 'Light Up the Sky'

By MARC CABRERA Herald Staff Writer Monterey County Herald

MontereyHerald.com

After two years living out of traveling cases, staging productions all across the Peninsula and enduring the painful loss of its beloved founder Morgan Stock, the Monterey Peninsula College Theatre Company has found its way back home.

This week, it reconnects with loyal patrons with its soft opening of the three-act domestic comedy "Light Up The Sky," previewing Thursday before beginning its official run Friday. It runs through May 26.

Written by award-winning 20th century play and screenwriter Moss Hart, "Light Up The Sky" focuses on the backstage antics of a new play that initially appears to be a hit.

When things go awry and the production appears doomed, the principals — actor, director, producer and playwright — turn against one another, only to be forced to reconcile once the rave reviews come in and the play turns into a success.

Gary Bolen, MPC theatre arts department chairman and the show's director, said he was determined to direct the first show produced on the newly renovated stage.

"After all we've been through, there was no way I was going to let someone else direct the first play in this theater," said Bolen with a smile. "Even if I was in an iron lung, I was going to have them roll me down there."

Bolen said "Light Up The Sky" seemed ideal as the inaugural production for the new stage, for several reasons.

Hart's play has been a popular and successful draw since it was first produced in 1948. It's a technically simple play with one set, a small cast, and few elements of sound and lighting.

"There are a lot of technical intricacies when you open up a building like this," said Bolen. "And if you open up with something like a huge musical, that has a lot of technical demands, you're going to find out, and probably not the way you want to, what has gone wrong."

Bolen assembled a veteran cast to handle the "little bumps in the road," as he termed it.

The cast of local veteran performers includes James Brady, Mitchell and Phyllis Davis, Teresa Del Piero, Keith Decker and Alexandra Bristow.

The cast and crew has endured some foibles in opening the new building. Bolen made light of his team's naivete in believing it could immediately begin rehearsals with full lights and stage from day one.

"We thought we were going to have the set-up, and the lights and everything, and we could rehearse the entire time on the set," Bolen said. "Cut to two and a half weeks later and we were still unable to have the set-up because of things happening with leveling the (stage) floor."

Another mishap occurred when the tech crew tested out the stage's electrical system during rehearsal. The fire curtain, which stands between the audience and the stage, came down and it could not be brought back up.

As recently as the weekend before opening night, the crew endured a heat wave with no air conditioning.

"There's no such thing as a simple play. There are always things that happen," said Bolen.

Bolen had high praise for his technical crew, including technical director Dan Beck, master carpenter Eric Maximoff and master electrician Steve Retsky. The technical team has patiently built and struck and rebuilt and re-struck sets all around town for two years.

Even with the building re-opening, the tech crew still had to build sets offstage because of the floor situation.

"Once we got the go-ahead to load things on stage, they were ready to go," said Bolen. "They've really done an outstanding job. This is a backstage comedy, so what people aren't seeing is all the stuff that goes on backstage and has been going on the last two years we've been out of the building."

Now, after a long wait, Bolen is eager to re-introduce local theater enthusiasts to his company's new stage.

"I think we've got a really special place now. A lot of the people that have worked with us over the years and have now seen the building, their jaws just drop when they see the renovations that have happened," said Bolen.

He continued, "I'm really looking forward to seeing those first patrons walk through the door. That for me will be the 'We're back' moment. The reason we do this is to bring professional quality theater to the Peninsula. When people walk through the door to see this first show, then we'll (officially) be back."

The Liberal Arts: Notes from Underground

An English professor reports on the academic meetings of two vastly different academic groups.

By David Clemens

May 14, 2013

I cross the border under cover of night and slip into the foreign capital. In my trench coat and hat, I hope to complete my mission unrecognized. On the icy river, lights twinkle from the distant hotel. I hesitate a moment, but walk on; there is no turning back. I will execute my mission.

Spy fiction is littered with initials and acronyms: SMERSH, SPECTRE, NSA, KGB. My non-fiction world has its own: ALSCW, MLA, NAS, ACTC. Last month, on the night in question, I was in Ottawa for the Association for Core Texts and Courses (ACTC) conference. Core texts?

Only months before, I had somehow been elected to the Modern Language Association (MLA) Delegate Assembly. In the MLA, to even whisper “core texts” or “great books” is to align yourself with racism, sexism, imperialism, phallocentrism, and white privilege.

I guess to the academy’s progressive politburo, my resume had appeared spotless: ‘60s guy, Civil Rights medal, citation for Women’s Lib, Berkeley riots in ‘68 with tear gas cluster. But these days, that’s all deep cover for my real work: spreading the Good News about Great Books.

For twenty years, ACTC has stayed off the radar, quietly tending the garden of core texts and courses, Western civilization, and great books. A Google search for the Association produces just 55,000 hits. I’ve had more hits for a blog post.

That low profile is because everyone knows that “the first rule of Great Books is that you never talk about Great Books.” That is because, in academe, one slip and that friendly Foucauldian in the next office or the quiet multiculturalist down the hall will expose you to the deans, and then the whole messy business unfolds. Out come the knives and the gendarmes of the institution, dispatched to remove your offending presence.

Just ask “Paul” who had dreamed of building a Great Books program like mine but gave up when he realized that “the social science teachers and literature teachers would never permit it.”

But off the grid in the frozen north, my comrades and I were free to speak about originality, Western civilization, genius, even religion and morality . . . approvingly. ACTC’s executive director, the indefatigable J. Scott Lee, framed it as our “opportunity to share and practice liberal arts education.” In fact, one thing that emerged from the conference was the necessity of describing our work as “liberal arts education” rather than “liberal education,” the once-honorable word “liberal” having acquired the opposite of its original meaning after years of political abuse.

In Ottawa, the ACTC theme was “Re-thinking the Liberal Arts through Core Texts: Science, Poetry, Philosophy and History.” Plenary speakers included Norma Thompson of Yale, speaking on “Jane Austen on Moral Education: the Liberal Arts in Mansfield Park”; John Churchill, secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, on that organization’s “New Advocacy Initiative for the Liberal Arts and Sciences”; Richard Kamber, ACTC president and professor of philosophy, asking “Can a Liberal Arts Education Really Make Us Good?” (no); and Victoria Mora, of St. John’s College (Santa Fe) on “Re-thinking the Liberal Arts in the Company of Miguel de Cervantes’ Sancho Panza.”

Panel presenters explored ways to bridge the religious and secular worlds, to put literature, philosophy, and science into collaboration (Kamber reminded us that in Brave New World not only were literature and high art banned, but also science), and to practice internationalism by engaging Europe, China, and Latin America.

The cross-cultural appreciation of Western civilization was bracing, such as in this panel:

Employing Liberal Arts & Core Texts outside of North American Education.

Hanke Drop, Jeroen Lutters, and Olga Potters, Windesheim University of Applied Sciences, and Jos Kleemans, University of Applied Sciences Utrecht, "The Need for a New Core in Dutch Education"; Lisa M. Isaacson, Zayed University, "You Shall Not Look through My Eyes Either: Reading for Global Awareness"; Peter Heckman, Zayed University, "Teaching Western Literature in the United Arab Emirates"; Gangcheng Sun, Beijing Institute of Technology, "Confucius' Theoretical Basis to Teach Students in Accordance with their Aptitude and Its Modern Edification."

ACTC presenters do not flog multiculturalism, GLBT, or the oppressed minority du jour. In contrast, the mighty MLA (795 panels to ACTC's 60) has been stuck on spin cycle for decades, rehashing the same preoccupations of the Left: sex, food, bodies, sex, animals, disability, hegemony, Theory, sex, workers, politics, ecology, and sex.

At January's MLA convention in Boston, Thursday alone offered an embarrassment of riches (or just an embarrassment) with sessions on "Literature and the Radical Left" arranged by the Radical Caucus; "Secluded Lives, Visible Bodies: Representations of Zenana Fashion in Film and Literature"; "Early American Sex"; "Fantasizing Stardom"; "Queer Theory without Antinormativity"; "Networks, Webs, and Ecosystems"; "Sexuality and Form in English Literature"; "Interiorities of Disability"; "Dirty Chaucer"; "Madness in Black Women's Diasporic Novels and the Aesthetics of Resistance"; and, "Movements, Incantations, and Parables of Queer Performance."

As the University of Virginia's Mark Edmundson once said of the MLA's myriad publisher's stalls, "I walked through the book displays and marveled at the sheer intellect represented there. And so much of it ... unreadable."

To be fair, I did see glimmers of a light dawning at the MLA.

For one, it's hard to fire off a gender j'accuse of "the patriarchy" when the audience is 70 percent female and racial rancor has waned under Obama. That left only "class" from the multicultural trinity. Sure enough, two of the panels I attended did feature Occupy rants against "the rich," "big corporations," and capitalism (from well-heeled academics agonizing over a system that forces them to receive princely salaries and perks. And by the way, one of the MLA conference sponsors was ... Microsoft). Guilt rules.

The most valuable panel was composed of former MLA presidents arguing against the emphasis on non-fiction in the Common Core (the federal government's new set of K-12 academic standards) and the advent of "Rube Goldberg" teacher assessment based on measurable student "success" in everything from career and technical courses to philosophy and poetry. The student's participation in his/her learning has been subtracted from the new assessment equations.

MLA and the ACTC have one thing in common—alarm at the growing emphasis on what Juniata College's Wade Roberts (ACTC) called "the soft tyranny of instrumental and pragmatic education," i.e., job training, careerism, and specialization to the exclusion of developing a more finely tuned self. Edmundson rhetorically asks, "What professor would have the bad taste to puncture the walls of his students' privacy by asking them uncomfortable questions about ultimate values?"

Illustrating this common concern, Roberts's colleague James Roney discussed one of my favorite books, Evgeny Zamyatin's dystopian We. We depicts a society (for him, Russia, but today perhaps ours) determinedly stamping out everything individual and human in the name of order and efficiency. In The One State, people are numbered and genetically engineered into standardized units. They live in glass houses and are separated from Nature by "The Green Wall." Resistance is met with an operation to remove your imagination.

As T.S. Eliot framed it:

They constantly try to escape
From the darkness outside and within
By dreaming of systems so perfect that no one will need to be good.

But humans can't escape the darkness and remain human; each human needs to find the good alone but also discover that, as Isaiah Berlin held, goods do conflict and life is tragic.

Many aspects of life today have become disassociated from such a fundamentally human journey. Both outside the academy and within, a new false god proclaims that learning is immediate, observable, and measurable, that the human condition is solvable technologically, and that the way to happiness is to love Big Brother in his many disguises. The false god's creed is that "the unexamined life is well worth living."

Facing this Moloch, perhaps one day the ACTC, the MLA, and other humanistic organizations will join forces to fight for human uniqueness and individuality. That battle will require the ACTC's values and perspective married to the MLA's muscle, a marriage deferred until the ACTC gets a bigger microphone and the MLA suffers a few more reality checks.

In the predawn darkness, I ride along Rideau Canal toward the airport and listen as my Afghani refugee driver tells me about his children. What kind of education will they receive and what kind of world awaits them? Will it be liberty, imagination, and a great humanistic tradition? Or will it be dehumanization, Moloch, and The One State? Clearly, I have not completed the mission. The mission has barely begun.

Board Address from Loran J. Walsh, MPCEA Chapter President

Good Afternoon Board Members,

22 May 2013

I want to thank the Board once again for your Board Resolution last month that acknowledged Classified Staff and Classified Employees Week May 20th through May 24 2013. I have placed a CSEA Week button at your seats that helps celebrate this week, please wear it with pride to help honor CSEA Classified employees.

I also want to thank on behalf of all Classified Employees, ASMPC for the lunch on May 8, 2013 for staff appreciation.

On May 8 2013 I attended my first Monterey Bay Central Labor Council Delegate Meeting held in Salinas. The meeting was very informative and I learned a lot about our labor movement on the Central Coast. I was surprised when I was informed about Hartnell College's decision to use only union labor for the building of its 27 million dollar Science Building.

The MPCEA Negotiation team continues to meet with the District. The MPCEA Negotiation Team continues to observe what the Health and Welfare Cost Containment Committee is discussing in reference to a Phase Plan for our self-insurance. I would like to quote what Gary Fuller, a faculty member of the HWCCC stated at a meeting I attended. "It's called the Health and Welfare Cost Containment Committee- not the Health and Welfare Cost Cutting Committee. "

I attended Chapter President's training at San Jose Headquarters for CSEA on May 11 2013. Another informative training to be a better representative of our members; the training was given by our association president.

On May 17 2013 the District passed out Root Beer Floats- I want to thank them for honoring classified staff in that way.

As always,

"There is No Class without Classified"

The CESA mission is: "To improve the lives of our members, students and community."

Legislative Report to the MPC Board of Trustees– Tribley – May 15, 2013

Met with Bill Monning, Luis Alejo, and Mark Stone this month. Ms. Nakamura and I met with these elected officials and their staff to meet formally for the first time and to discuss issues of importance. Mr. Stone received a tour of the MPC Monterey Campus. We will meet with Mr. Farr at a later date.

AB 806 (Wilk) Salaries of Classroom Instructors

This bill would define "salaries of classroom instructors," commencing with the 2014-15 fiscal year, to include the salaries of counselors; instructional aide salaries, as defined; and the health and welfare benefits paid to specified personnel . The bill would also authorize the board of governors , commencing with the 2014-15 fiscal year, to establish a committee to review the auditing procedures in order to ensure compliance with the requirement that 50% of each district's current expense of education be paid for the salaries of classroom instructors. This bill is being heard on May 15 by the Assembly Appropriations Committee.

AB 955 (Williams) Intersession Extension Programs

The bill would allow community colleges to offer extension programs for credit, during summer and winter intersessions, if the college has been at enrollment capacity for the preceding two years. Under AB 955, colleges could only offer courses leading to a certificate, degree, or transfer with fees based upon the district's approved nonresident fee level. As amended, the bill would require that 1/3rd of the revenues collected for the extension program be used to provide financial assistance in order to help provide access to extension courses for BOG fee waiver students.

Governor Brown's proposed policy changes in January 2013 regarding a 90-unit-cap for students and his census proposal have been withdrawn in the May revision of the Governor's Budget proposal.

Summary: It is important to recognize that this is a State "match" funded project (State will fund $3,318,000 and MPC will fund $3,296,000). The original budget of $3,845,000 that MPC was to contribute has now been reduced to $3,296,000 due to the bids coming in lower than the budget. This results in a potential savings to the MPC bond budget of $549,000 which may be allocated in the future to a contingency fund. Phase 1 (Old Student Services Building) has been completed. Phase 2 (Humanities Building) construction continues and is ahead of the contract construction schedule completion date of November 2013.
